MEDICAL REPORT

RE: OKOYE ISAAC CHUKWUDI/MALE/25 YEARS

This is to advise that the above named individual is a patient of this facility. He was first admitted and diagnosed on 21st February, 2024. Patient was presented to the Haematology and Blood Bank Department of the hospital and was diagnosed with Acute Myeloid Leukemia (AML), FAB M2 subtype, following Patient's complaints of persistent fatigue, unexplained weight loss, easy bruising, and recurrent infections over the past few months.

The patient has a history of hypertension managed with Amlodipine. He will be initiated on induction chemotherapy with a regimen consisting of cytarabine and daunorubicin. Supportive measures will include transfusion of packed red blood cells and platelets as needed to maintain stable hemoglobin and platelet levels. Due to the increased risk of infections associated with chemotherapy-induced neutropenia, Prophylactic antibiotics will be initiated to reduce the risk of bacterial infections. Close monitoring of hematological parameters will be performed regularly to assess response to treatment and monitor for complications.

Patient has been advised to avoid all strenuous activities and it will be appreciated if he is given preferential attention on basis of any request pertaining leverage to stay close to the hospital in Osun State for proper management and care by his personal Haematologists and Oncologists and hospital at large. Kindly accord him all necessary assistance.

THANKS
